

JULY 2006 The Sacco Eye Group Proudly Welcomes Dr. Andrew DiMattina

On July 1st, 2006 we welcomed in to our practice a bright, energetic doctor with ties to our community. Dr. Andrew DiMattina is a Union Endicott High graduate and moves back to our area with his wife Pam. Dr. DiMattina did his undergraduate training at SUNY Geneseo and post graduate doctor of optometry training at the prestigious SUNY College of Optometry in Manhattan. Dr. DiMattina did his post graduate residency training in ocular disease at the Baltimore Veterans Administration Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland. His many accomplishments include being awarded the Morton Kimmelman Award for Student Leadership, the SUNY Chancellors Award, the Michael G. Harris Leadership Award, as well as being inducted into the Beta Kappa Sigma Optometric Honor Society and Tri-Beta Biological Honor Society. Dr. DiMattina has lectured extensively to other doctors, has been published in a major eye care journal, has presented posters at national meetings, and donates his time doing eye examinations at no charge for the Special Olympics athletes. We are sure you will enjoy meeting Dr. DiMattina!
