Dr. Sacco was interviewed in a special publication addressing corneal complications from solution/contact lens interactions.

The special edition pamphlet for eye doctors is titled "Infiltrative Keratitis in Daily Lens Wearers: Do You See What I See?" The publication can be viewed here <http://www.clspectrum.com/article.aspx?article=105461>.

Throughout the article Dr. Sacco, along with other specialists from across the country, are interviewed regarding a new form of corneal complication. In the same issue, Dr. Sacco published a paper addressing this condition. It is widely believed that this is an under diagnosed condition and has been mistaken by other doctors as an unrelated condition.
